VETO OF THE RIVER AND HARBOR STEAL BILL.

President Arthur has very properly returned the River and Harbor Steal Bill to Congress without his approval, giving excellent reasons for the veto. He declares that appropriations for purely local purposes are unconstitutional, and that the means generally employed to influence legislation of such a character, has resulted in increasing the appropriations for river and harbor improvements out of all proportion to the progress of the country, great as that has heretofore been. This is clearly shown by his statement that in 1870 the aggregate appropriations was $3,995,900; in 1875, $6,648,517.50; in 1880, $8,976,500, and in 1881, $11,451,350, while by the present Act there is appropriated $18,745,875. The President argues soundly that such vast sums of money can not be economically expended within the brief period generally allowed to perform the work directed. He suggests that one-half the sum saved for the present fiscal year would be ample for the country's needs, provided the disbursement of it be left to the Secretary of War, under the exclusive direction of the President. The President deserves the thanks of the entire country for his veto of this iniquitous measure. While President Arthur has done his duty Congress has shamefully abused its trust by hurriedly passing the steal over the veto.

Zululand Once More.

Some Indian correspondence recently published in an English paper contained an account of the bewilderment of a General McPherson, in command of a native brigade, when he received a telegram ordering him to proceed at once to Zululand. It was only after much exasperating telegraphing that he found the telegram was intended for a Daily News correspondent named McPherson. It is a little ominous that "our special correspondents" should be on their way to Zululand once more, but it appears that Gladstone's vacillating policy is producing its due effect there, as elsewhere. Cetewayo, the imprisoned king, has been very desirous of visiting England. He has an idea that the visit would result in his restoration to the Zulu throne. The Zulus have the same opinion. Gladstone a while ago granted his request. That aroused the Zulu chiefs. They became arrogant and confident at once and proceeded to bulldoze the resident officials, in the manner we know so well here from experience with the reservation Indians. Representations of the danger of yielding to Cetewayo's request and thereby exciting the Zulus were sent to England and an order came revoking Cetewayo's permit. The Zulus were exasperated but they were snubbed and knew it and their truculence was at an end. Now, however, Gladstone having heard of Cetewayo's grief and despondency, has yielded once more and has told him to come. Zululand is therefore all in a blaze again; and whether Cetewayo be restored to the throne or not restored, serious trouble and doubtless a war is certain to be the result.

A Fearless Lender.

It was the habit of the late Gen. Skobelev to go into an engagement, clad in a brand new uniform of white, with an elegant gold-mounted sword—the gift of the Czar—at his side. He did this in order that the enemy be better able to single him out as a target. He was ever in the thick of the fight. By his death, at the early age of 36 years, Russia has lost her most brilliant and daring General. On the outbreak of their Russian and Turkish war, he was the first man to cross the Danube. While other generals were fussing about the construction of pontoons, he plunged his horse into the river and called on his men to follow. Arrived on the opposite bank he announced his intention of making straight for Constantinople. When the British fleet was steaming up the Bosphorus, to resist any Russian entry into the city, it was only by the personal persuasion—almost the main force—of the Czar himself that the reckless fellow could be restrained from attacking the capital with his small band of followers.

He was as anti-British as anti-German, his fondest dream being the establishment of Russian rule in all the Slave provinces to the south of the Danube.

His policy was ultra-Paupalist. His brilliant exploits in Central Asia, undertaken almost with the sole object of harassing Great Britain, are as well known as his daring defiance of Germany only a few months since.

If reckless daring constitutes heroism, the world has produced few such heroes as the dead Skobelev. His loss is a national calamity for Russia.

The Deadly Toy Pistol.

Of the toy pistol, which has caused so many deaths among children from lockjaw, the Boston Herald says:

A thorough investigation of the nature of the wounds and the manner in which they are generally inflicted seems to point to an altogether different explanation of the matter. The number and variety of toy pistols extant are almost innumerable, but the one which has done the most harm has a bored barrel and uses a blank twenty-two cartridge, the explosive power of which is fully equal to that sized cartridge wherever used. The lock is cheap, and constantly getting out of order. In trying with the right hand to make the hammer stay at full cock, the boy's left hand often inadvertently slips over the muzzle and in tumbling round the weapon is discharged into the palm, imbedding therein the powder and wads, and producing such a laceration of the nerves and sinews as to produce lockjaw. The weapon was invented some few years ago at Bridgeport, Connecticut, and in using it in its earlier form several accidents occurred by pieces of the cartridge flying back and striking the firer on the thumb and fingers. In order to remedy this evil, what is known as a safety loop was attached. This is a sort of metallic hoop fastened to the barrel in such a way that it can be swung back so as to lie between the base of the cartridge and the hammer of the pistol—it must, indeed, be in this position if the cartridge is to be exploded. Thus all injury to the thumb and finger that were once in danger is prevented; but it is in adjusting this loop that most of the accidents have been caused. For, if one hand be occupied in holding the toy, it is natural that the other should be used for putting the loop in place, and, in doing this simple operation unless one be exceedingly careful he will, before he is aware of it, catch himself holding this second hand for a moment directly over the muzzle. The mechanism of a twenty-five cent pistol is not so fine that a little use does not impair its perfection. Frequent snapping of the hammer is likely to wear off enough of the metal to result in an accidental dropping of the hammer. Some of the most reputable concerns in town that deal in these pistols have long refused to sell any to children unless a written request from their parents was presented, and go so far as to say that manufacture and sale of the toy should be prevented.

The veil lifted from the Black Art. How women are fired from cannon, men eat fire; heads cut off and hundreds of other mysteries will be short and decisive. While the Democratic gubernatorial aspirants are making their wishes known over the State, the Republican candidates are apparently lukewarm, each feeling sanguine of winning the prize. The mention of a possible dark horse here or there disturbs them not. The disposition of Republicans is to have a strong ticket, men of good character and ability, and who can carry the strength of the party. A ticket of this kind can certainly draw votes from the opposite side, and to effect the desired result good men must be elected at the primaries.

WANT A NEW DEAL.—It is perhaps not generally known that there is another class outside of politicians who are clamoring for a new deal in State politics this Fall. The Carson Appeal tells the subjoined:

The class referred to are enjoying the prosperity of the commonwealth at the stone quarry, and are those who have within the past four years repeatedly presented to the Board of Pardons their application for restoration to liberty, without being granted a favorable hearing. The Board consists of the Governor, Attorney General and three Supreme Judges. Three members of the Board, namely, a Governor, Attorney General and one Judge, are to be elected next Fall, and the convicts who are anxious for freedom are as much interested in the result as is the most enthusiastic politician. They think a "new deal" may further their chances for a pardon.

In England a man has been sentenced to eighteen months imprisonment for stealing an umbrella. The plea that he was from Reno, Nevada, and that he took it through an ungovernable horror of water, was lost on the adamant Court, and he went up.—[Elko Independent.

Water? Don't you want?

The Democrats of Fresno county, California, adopted resolutions endorsing the platform of the State Convention, save the plank pertaining to the Sunday law. On this point the Convention resolved that it was wrong to mingle Church and State.

The Virginia Chronicle insinuates that Mr. Cassidy dodged the vote on the veto of the River and Harbor bill. Mr. Cassidy voted for the original passage of the bill.

Mrs. Jake Riem and her daughter Adele, one of the brightest of children, are at present stopping at the Coat's Tavern, pending Jakes return from the Comstock.

Mr. M. Ayers, editor and proprietor of the Farmer and Dealer, San Francisco, was in town yesterday. The Farmer and Dealer was the paper from which the JOURNAL recently copied an account of A. H. Barnes' lung tapping case.

Senator Charley Kaiser is one of the most popular men in Churchill county. His name there seems to be the synonym of "help to the prospectors," and as this is a prospecting State he seems to have acquired a myriad of prospecting friends. Charley left for Carson day before yesterday.

Judge Young and the centurian, Tommy Freehill, met yesterday for the first time after an absence of over ninety years. The two old veterans as soon as they saw each other, burst into a Niagara cataract of tears and falling into each other's embrace literally melted away in their excess of feelings.

Mr. Paul Sirac, lately of the Humboldt House, in Humboldt county, is here on a visit. He has been working a mine about three miles from the "House," for the last six months. He carries with him a number of fine specimens of ore which he has extracted. He is stopping at the French Hotel.

A Big Project.

It is said that Adolph Sutro will soon erect a large hotel and bathing house on his Cliff House property. He will spare no expense to make it one of the most attractive places in the Union. This calls to our mind the fact that Col. Zine Barnes intends to have a bill introduced in the next California Legislature, directing the killing of the sea lions out there. The Colonel insists that these monsters destroy enough fish to supply food to hundreds of poor people.

For Auditor.

J. B. Williams announces himself as a candidate for re-election as Auditor and Recorder. Mr. Williams is one of the best officers the county has ever had. As long as a Democrat is to have that office Mr. Williams will probably occupy it, and it is doubtful if a Republican gets in there while Williams lives.

Unknown Corpse.

Sanders, the Undertaker, and Dickens, the Coroner, being informed of the finding of a dead man somewhere near Semmon's, on the Peavine road, started out last night to find the body and inquire into the circumstances of his death.

Consternation Among the Central Pacific Conductors.

Two passenger and nine freight conductors have recently been discharged from the road for alleged irregularities, and the end is said not to be yet. A large number are yet to be let out, so it is said. The Co. has a number of expert "spotters" now on the road.

An Impromptu Dance.

Night before last, about eight o'clock, the many friends of Monsieur V. Bonnette, proprietor of the French Hotel, paid him a visit and surprised him completely out of his boots. Dancing and festivities were kept up until a late hour.

REPORT OF CARSON'S SCIENTIST.

A New Light on the Mysterious Tracks at the State's Prison.

Yesterday afternoon a deputation of Carson scientists left for the State Prison (the sheriff not accompanying them however) for the purpose of still further elucidating the problem of the strange tracks found in the quarry grounds of the penitentiary.

THE HUMAN TRACKS.

They first proceeded to examine the twelve human tracks extending across the yard of the prison. After carefully measuring the length, width, breadth and depth of the footprints, the committee unanimously decided that the 21-inch footprint was that of an antediluvian Carsonite; the 19 inch that of his wife, and the 18 inch, the sweet little footsie of his daughter. The finding of the committee thus establishes without a doubt that the magnificent pedal proportions of the Carson belles is matter of record extending away back beyond the glacial period.

THE WONDERFUL MAMMOTH TRACKS.

When, however, the committee arrived at the so-called mammoth footprints, then came a puzzler. Some of the members on measuring them and finding them to average 32 inches in diameter (nearly three feet), were extremely puzzled at their extraordinary shape and especially by a peculiar conformation in the centre of each indentation. After two hours of severe wrangling, the committee decided solemnly that the so-called mammoth tracks were caused by nothing more than the sudden setting down on the yielding antediluvian mud, of some ancient Carson maidens, hence the extraordinary qualities and size of the impression.

THE HYENA-LIKE TRACKS.

The committee were still more puzzled when they came to the curious hyena-like tracks with their hop, skip and a jump as Professor Harlow quaintly remarked. It threw them in an ocean of doubt and light was only let on in the abstruse question when Professor Parkinson exclaimed "Eureka," "Beno!" (meaning "I have it") "Darn 'em," "Those my fellow citizens are the hyena-like tracks of Carson's ancient mosquitoes skipping and frolicking playfully around the bare pedestals of our oldtime Carson maidens, for at that period over 8,000 years ago shoes and stockings were unknown."

This announcement profoundly affected the committee and a vote of thanks was unanimously awarded Mr. Parkinson.

THE BIRD-LIKE TRACKS.

The peculiar shape of the so-called bird-like tracks in the ancient sandstone was a problem which nothing apparently could unravel. They were compared to everything in the shape of known bird or beast. The question was likely to forever remain unsettled when suddenly one of the committee, an attenuated Carson editor, happening to take off his boot from his unstockinged feet, the similitude struck every one at a moment's glance, and the committee thereupon unanimously declared that the so-called bird tracks were nothing more than the imprints of the skeleton feet and toes of the ancient attenuated Carson editors, of whom there must have been far more than at present. Items, too, at that period must have been very scarce, to judge from the way the editors' tracks crossed, recrossed and jumped around the female tracks. Altogether the report of the Committee will prove a happy one. For years past it has been an open question in natural history regarding the antecedents, and peculiar qualities of the ancient Carsonites—male and female. The Committee's report will settle all of these distracted questions, and thus end a controversy that especially affects the dear little feet of so many beautiful girls in the State. Forever hereafter, the Carson belles may claim the most foot, against any girls in the world.

Our Coming Fair.

The Greenville Bulletin says "the Nevada State Fair will open this year at Reno on October 2nd, and promises to be far better than any previous meeting. The pavilion and stock exhibits are to be made a specialty for Nevada and Northern California. Printed programmes will be out soon and will be distributed through this and adjoining counties. Last year visitors had some cause of complaint that the business men of Reno had not taken as much pains as they might have done to make their fair a success. The criticism has not been lost, for this year there is a lively interest manifested by every one, and an evident desire to make the Reno fair such an attraction that all who attend will be delighted."

For Sheriff.

L. J. Flint announces himself a candidate for Sheriff, subject to the decision of the Democratic County Convention. Mr. Flint is a sterling man, and his administration of the Sheriff's office would be correct and honest in every particular. He would be a strong man before the people, and it will take a mighty lively and good Republican to defeat him.

Reno's Efficient Officers.

Constable Avery, with Deputy Hoy and other subordinates, have worked like Trojans and deserve to be remembered at the approaching election. Officers whom a mere whisper from a public journal will start on a disagreeable journey against vagrancy and crime, battling it up to success, are worthy of public remembrance. From the time that the JOURNAL published the first account of the depredations in Douglass Avenue the Constable and his deputies have striven to suppress all lawlessness and vagrancy, and the records of the Police Court show his success.

A Wonderful Baby Wagon.

A few days ago Nasby received an order for a fine children's wagon, which he immediately executed. As a result yesterday morning, there were crowds viewing the pretty little triplet, and twin wagon, with iron axles, standing in front of M. Nathan's.

W. H. Patton, of Virginia City, passed East this morning. According to the Enterprise he will remain till September.

Our Perfumery Establishment.

The highways and byways of Reno are filled with dead cats, dogs and animals of innumerable stench producing qualities. On the main streets a show of decency is affected, but when the rear localities, off the main streets, are reached, there garbage of every known description is either dumped into a shallow hole or scattered in the open air. Reno has excellent water, and water facilities—and possesses the finest chance for a first-class sewage system; nevertheless everybody seems to remain apathetic and trust to his neighbor. One of the worst features of the town is the horrible stench from decaying vegetables, that a visitor can smell by walking through almost any part of the town. A JOURNAL reporter accompanied a perfumer, lately arrived from San Francisco, and at every prominent corner a splended perfume arose from the decaying refuse. The San Franciscoan declared that the odor of Reno's cabbage Frangipanni, dead cat musk and old boot violet would beat the world and that he intended to start a factory here. Suppose that Reno would clear up all of these fine perfume heaps—would not the riverside town profit by it.

For Clerk.

R. S. Osburn announces that he will be a candidate for re-election as County Clerk. Mr. Osburn is serving his first term, and has given general satisfaction. If we must have a Democratic Clerk it would probably be as well to retain Osburn as anybody else.

Lyon County Democrats.

The Democrats of Lyon county hold their County Convention on the 26th, for the purpose of nominating a full county ticket and electing delegates to the State Convention.

"Theatrical And Circus Life" is the name of a new book just issued by that enterprising firm the Sun Publishing Co., of St. Louis. This interesting work will be welcomed by the thousands who nightly visit our places of amusement, but who are unacquainted with the mysteries of the "Profession," and will be doubly welcomed by those who never visit such places, but whose curiosity has often been excited by the flaming posters placed in conspicuous places. It is a grand book for agents. We call attention to advertisement elsewhere.

The committee arranging the programme for the entertainment to be given to Mr. Ring have decided to send out invitations to all those who have subscribed. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged all others not having invitations. The proceeds will be used in defraying other expenses.

Elsewhere will be found the call for the Democratic primaries, to elect delegates to the State Convention.

A New Quartz Crusher.

The was upon trial and exhibition yesterday, at Peter Brunster's lumber yard, a novel machine for crushing quartz. A Union reporter saw the machine in operation, but could not learn the name of it. It is, however, a rotary wet crusher, and does some very rapid pulverizing of rock. At the trial yesterday, 500 pounds of very hard quartz was run through the grinder and the time consumed was just 31 minutes. The rock was ground as fine as flour. The mill runs with very little noise, and one of the size named can be run easily by a two horse-power engine fast enough to grind a ton of rock in two hours or five tons per day. This is much faster than rock can be crushed by the ordinary stamps in use in the mills here. The machine is permanently located at Brunster's mill, and can be seen in operation any day.
